This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

+ Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
+ Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
+ Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
+ Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

About Google Book Search

Google's mission is to organize the world's information and to make it universally accessible and useful. Google Book Search helps readers discover the world's books while helping authors and publishers reach new audiences. IMMIGRATION TO THE UNITED STATES.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT, BUREAU OF STATISTICS,
Washington, D. C., April 15, 1889.

SIR: I have the honor to present herewith statements showing the arrival of alien passengers and immigrants in the United States each year from 1820 to 1888, inclusive.

A portion of this information was prepared for the Special Committee on Immigration of the Fiftieth Congress. This, with supplementary tables, presents the most important details of immigration into the country which can be secured from the official records. As to the extent of the immigration to this country prior to 1820, there are little authentic data, and our information upon the subject is derived mainly from the estimates of the statistical writers of that period.

The data from 1820 to 1856 are derived principally from the History of Immigration to the United States, prepared in 1856 by William J. Bromwell, formerly connected with the Department of State. From this valuable report the following extracts are taken:

The statements contained in it (my report, says Mr. Bromwell) have been compiled entirely from official documents.

First, and chiefly, from the annual reports on immigration prepared at the Department of State, and by the Secretary commissioned by Congress in compliance with a requirement of the passenger act of March 2, 1819.

Secondly, from passenger abstracts transmitted to the Secretary of State by collectors of customs, and on file in the Department, yet not embraced in the annual reports on immigration because not received until those reports had been completed and laid before Congress.

Thirdly, from such custom-house records as furnished immigration statistics never communicated to the Secretary, or which, if ever communicated, are now missing from the files of the Department.

The facts thus accumulated * * * contain all the available official information of importance in possession of the country relative to its immigration.

Mr. Samuel Blodget, a statistician of more than ordinary research and accuracy, wrote in 1806, while every fact in regard to immigration was fresh in the minds of the people, that from "the best records and estimates at present attainable," the immigrants arriving in this country did not average, for the ten years from 1784 to 1794, more than 4,000 per annum.

During 1794 10,000 persons were estimated to have arrived in the United States from foreign countries.

In 1818 Dr. Adam Seybert, member of the House of Representatives from Pennsylvania, in his exceedingly valuable "Statistical Annals" of the United States, wrote to the following effect:

"Though we admit that 10,000 foreigners may have arrived in the United States in 1794, we can not allow that they did so, in an equal number, in any preceding or subsequent year until 1817;" and he assumes that 6,000 persons arrived in the United States from foreign countries in each year from 1790 to 1810. To him and to the authorities he consulted this average seemed a generous one.

During the ten years from 1806 to 1816 extensive immigration to the United States was precluded by the unfriendly relations at that time existing between Great Britain, France, and the United States.

England maintained the doctrine, and for a while enforced it with success, that "a man once a subject was always a subject." This deterred many from emigrating to this country from the British Empire. Numbers had previously come for the purpose of entering the American merchant service, and numbers still might have come which the fear of British impressment frightened from carrying out their design.

Another influence retarded immigration: In 1806 Great Britain issued a decree declaring the coasts of France in a state of blockade. A retaliatory decree was, in November of the same year, issued by France, declaring the British Isles in a state of blockade.

To these restrictions on commerce—and, consequently, on the unobstructed passage from Europe—succeeded the British orders in council and the Milan decree of Napoleon.

In March, 1809, the United States law was passed prohibiting for one year intercourse with Great Britain and France.

In 1810 the Napoleonic decrees were annulled, and the commerce of the United States had, in 1811, fairly commenced with France, but only to have their vessels fall into the hands of the British.

Preparations were now making for active hostilities, and on the 18th of June, 1812, war was formally declared by the United States to exist with Great Britain.

The German emigration sensibly felt this unfavorable condition of affairs, inasmuch as the Germans embarked principally at the ports of Liverpool and Havre; facilities for migrating thence to this country being more numerous, and the expense of the voyage less onerous. Thus, from 1806, was the stream of emigration pent up at its fountain.

In February, 1815, peace was concluded between the United States and Great Britain, and, after several months requisite to restore tranquillity and to secure the confidence of those desiring to leave the Old World, the tide resumed its flow, and with a speed greatly accelerated; as, from authentic information, collected principally at the several custom-houses, it appears that, during the year 1817, not less than 22,240 persons arrived at ports of the United States from foreign countries. This number included American citizens returning from abroad.

In no year previous to that had one-half so many foreign passengers reached our shores. Many sufferings were incident to a voyage across the Atlantic in a crowded emigrant vessel; and there were no laws of the United States either limiting the number of persons which a passenger ship or vessel should be entitled to carry or providing any measures for the health or accommodation of the passengers. The subject seemed to deserve the immediate attention of Congress. In 1818 (March 10) Louis M'Lane, of Delaware, reported to the House of Representatives a bill "regulating passenger ships and vessels," which was read twice and referred.

In December of the following session it was called up by Thomas Newton, of Virginia, who explained the necessity of its passage. It was read a third time and passed by the House.

After receiving amendments from both the Senate and House, it was finally passed, and approved March 2, 1819.

Mr. Bromwell, from the data at his command, estimated the number of immigrants arrived in the country from the close of the Revolutionary war to 1820 to be 250,000.

Prior to 1856 the official statistics of arrivals of passengers from foreign countries indicate the arrivals of alien passengers only, without distinguishing those intending to make their permanent residence in this country from merely transient passengers or sojourners. From 1856 to 1868 the statistics distinguish, as to the total number of alien arrivals, the immigrants from the transient passengers, but since 1868 the number of immigrants of each nationality are shown separately from sojourners.

Neither the act of March 2, 1819, nor any subsequent act provided means for collecting statistics of immigrants arriving otherwise than in vessels, and no attempt was made to ascertain the number of immigrants crossing the frontier into the United States either from Mexico or Canada until 1860, when, by direction of the Secretary of the Treasury, the collectors of customs at Detroit and Port Huron made returns to the Department of State of immigrants arriving at those ports from and through Canada, by railway trains and ferries, so far as they could learn the number, nationality, etc., from inspection and inquiry of the passengers.

The collectors at those ports continued to make returns to the Department of State of such data as could be procured from the sources and in the manner indicated until 1868, and after that date to this bureau, until June 30, 1885, when the returns were discontinued owing to their unreliability, the passenger traffic across the frontier at those points having become so great as to render it very difficult to discriminate between transient passengers and immigrants, also from the inability of the Department to secure information in regard to immigrants arriving at other points on the border.

No statistics of immigrants arriving by land-carriage from Mexico have ever been collected. Since June 30, 1885, immigrants from Mexico and Canada, whether arriving by land or by water, have been excluded from the immigration statistics. The number, nationality, etc., of immigrants arriving in vessels by sea from those countries can be ascertained under existing law; but as the greater number arrive by land-carriage it is deemed best to exclude the arrivals by sea. The passenger traffic across our borders has become so great in consequence of our intimate trade relations and the fluctuations of wages in the respective countries, that people pass backward and forward between the United States, Canada, and Mexico with almost the same facility as between the States of our nation. Under these circumstances, with the facilities of cheap and rapid travel between the countries, the number leaving one country for another with the fixed determination of permanently changing their residence grows less yearly; and it would, therefore, be very difficult to frame a law that would accurately secure the true annual net immigration of the respective countries from each other. The national census, which shows the number of persons of Mexican and Canadian birth in the United States at each decade, is believed to afford the best attainable data for an estimate of the annual immigration from those countries.

Wm. F. Switzler.

Chief of Bureau.

Secretary.

No. 1.—Statement showing, by nationalities, the number of alien passengers arrived in the United States during each calendar year from 1820 to 1867, inclusive, and of immigrants only during each year from 1868 to 1868, inclusive.

[Notes.—1. Prior to the year 1820 no official record was kept of the arrivals of alien passengers. It is estimated, however, that the total number arrived in the United States from the foundation of the Government to the year 1820 was 250,000. 2. The years 1820 to 1831 and from 1843 to 1850, inclusive, are years ending September 30; all other years are calendar years.]

IMMIGRATION TO THE UNITED STATES.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT, BUREAU OF STATISTICS,
Washington, D. C., April 15, 1889.

SIR: I have the honor to present herewith statements showing the arrival of alien passengers and immigrants in the United States each year from 1820 to 1888, inclusive.

A portion of this information was prepared for the Special Committee on Immigration of the Fiftieth Congress. This, with supplementary tables, presents the most important details of immigration into the country which can be secured from the official records. As to the extent of the immigration to this country prior to 1820, there are little authentic data, and our information upon the subject is derived mainly from the estimates of the statistical writers of that period.

The data from 1820 to 1856 are derived principally from the History of Immigration to the United States, prepared in 1856 by William J. Bromwell, formerly connected with the Department of State. From this valuable report the following extracts are taken:

The statements contained in it (my report, says Mr. Bromwell) have been compiled entirely from official documents.

First, and chiefly, from the annual reports on immigration prepared at the Department of State, and by the Secretary commissioned by Congress in compliance with a requirement of the passenger act of March 2, 1819.

Secondly, from passenger abstracts transmitted to the Secretary of State by collectors of customs, and on file in the Department, yet not embraced in the annual reports on immigration because not received until those reports had been completed and laid before Congress.

Thirdly, from such custom-house records as furnished immigration statistics never communicated to the Secretary, or which, if ever communicated, are now missing from the files of the Department.

The facts thus accumulated * * * contain all the available official information of importance in possession of the country relative to its immigration.

Mr. Samuel Blodget, a statistician of more than ordinary research and accuracy, wrote in 1806, while every fact in regard to immigration was fresh in the minds of the people, that from "the best records and estimates at present attainable," the immigrants arriving in this country did not average, for the ten years from 1784 to 1794, more than 4,000 per annum.

During 1794 10,000 persons were estimated to have arrived in the United States from foreign countries.

In 1818 Dr. Adam Seybert, member of the House of Representatives from Pennsylvania, in his exceedingly valuable "Statistical Annals" of the United States, wrote to the following effect:

"Though we admit that 10,000 foreigners may have arrived in the United States in 1794, we can not allow that they did so, in an equal number, in any preceding or subsequent year until 1817;" and he assumes that 6,000 persons arrived in the United States from foreign countries in each year from 1790 to 1810. To him and to the authorities he consulted this average seemed a generous one.

During the ten years from 1806 to 1816 extensive immigration to the United States was precluded by the unfriendly relations at that time existing between Great Britain, France, and the United States.

England maintained the doctrine, and for a while enforced it with success, that "a man once a subject was always a subject." This deterred many from emigrating to this country from the British Empire. Numbers had previously come for the purpose of entering the American merchant service, and numbers still might have come which the fear of British impressment frightened from carrying out their design.

Another influence retarded immigration: In 1806 Great Britain issued a decree declaring the coasts of France in a state of blockade. A retaliatory decree was, in November of the same year, issued by France, declaring the British Isles in a state of blockade.

To these restrictions on commerce—and, consequently, on the unobstructed passage from Europe—succeeded the British orders in council and the Milan decree of Napoleon.

In March, 1809, the United States law was passed prohibiting for one year intercourse with Great Britain and France.

In 1810 the Napoleonic decrees were annulled, and the commerce of the United States had, in 1811, fairly commenced with France, but only to have their vessels fall into the hands of the British.

Preparations were now making for active hostilities, and on the 18th of June, 1812, war was formally declared by the United States to exist with Great Britain.

The German emigration sensibly felt this unfavorable condition of affairs, inasmuch as the Germans embarked principally at the ports of Liverpool and Havre; facilities for migrating thence to this country being more numerous, and the expense of the voyage less onerous. Thus, from 1806, was the stream of emigration pent up at its fountain.

In February, 1815, peace was concluded between the United States and Great Britain, and, after several months requisite to restore tranquillity and to secure the confidence of those desiring to leave the Old World, the tide resumed its flow, and with a speed greatly accelerated; as, from authentic information, collected principally at the several custom-houses, it appears that, during the year 1817, not less than 22,240 persons arrived at ports of the United States from foreign countries. This number included American citizens returning from abroad.

In no year previous to that had one-half so many foreign passengers reached our shores. Many sufferings were incident to a voyage across the Atlantic in a crowded emigrant vessel; and there were no laws of the United States either limiting the number of persons which a passenger ship or vessel should be entitled to carry or providing any measures for the health or accommodation of the passengers. The subject seemed to deserve the immediate attention of Congress. In 1818 (March 10) Louis M'Lane, of Delaware, reported to the House of Representatives a bill "regulating passenger ships and vessels," which was read twice and referred.

In December of the following session it was called up by Thomas Newton, of Virginia, who explained the necessity of its passage. It was read a third time and passed by the House.

After receiving amendments from both the Senate and House, it was finally passed, and approved March 2, 1819.

Mr. Bromwell, from the data at his command, estimated the number of immigrants arrived in the country from the close of the Revolutionary war to 1820 to be 250,000.

Prior to 1856 the official statistics of arrivals of passengers from foreign countries indicate the arrivals of alien passengers only, without distinguishing those intending to make their permanent residence in this country from merely transient passengers or sojourners. From 1856 to 1868 the statistics distinguish, as to the total number of alien arrivals, the immigrants from the transient passengers, but since 1868 the number of immigrants of each nationality are shown separately from sojourners.

Neither the act of March 2, 1819, nor any subsequent act provided means for collecting statistics of immigrants arriving otherwise than in vessels, and no attempt was made to ascertain the number of immigrants crossing the frontier into the United States either from Mexico or Canada until 1860, when, by direction of the Secretary of the Treasury, the collectors of customs at Detroit and Port Huron made returns to the Department of State of immigrants arriving at those ports from and through Canada, by railway trains and ferries, so far as they could learn the number, nationality, etc., from inspection and inquiry of the passengers.

The collectors at those ports continued to make returns to the Department of State of such data as could be procured from the sources and in the manner indicated until 1868, and after that date to this bureau, until June 30, 1885, when the returns were discontinued owing to their unreliability, the passenger traffic across the frontier at those points having become so great as to render it very difficult to discriminate between transient passengers and immigrants, also from the inability of the Department to secure information in regard to immigrants arriving at other points on the border.

No statistics of immigrants arriving by land-carriage from Mexico have ever been collected. Since June 30, 1885, immigrants from Mexico and Canada, whether arriving by land or by water, have been excluded from the immigration statistics. The number, nationality, etc., of immigrants arriving in vessels by sea from those countries can be ascertained under existing law; but as the greater number arrive by land-carriage it is deemed best to exclude the arrivals by sea. The passenger traffic across our borders has become so great in consequence of our intimate trade relations and the fluctuations of wages in the respective countries, that people pass backward and forward between the United States, Canada, and Mexico with almost the same facility as between the States of our nation. Under these circumstances, with the facilities of cheap and rapid travel between the countries, the number leaving one country for another with the fixed determination of permanently changing their residence grows less yearly; and it would, therefore, be very difficult to frame a law that would accurately secure the true annual net immigration of the respective countries from each other. The national census, which shows the number of persons of Mexican and Canadian birth in the United States at each decade, is believed to afford the best attainable data for an estimate of the annual immigration from those countries.

Wm. F. Switzler.

Chief of Bureau.

Hon. Wm. Windom,
Secretary.

this country from the British Empire. Numbers had previously come for the purpose of entering the American merchant service, and numbers still might have come which the fear of British impressment frightened from carrying out their design.

Another influence retarded immigration: In 1806 Great Britain issued a decree declaring the coasts of France in a state of blockade. A retaliatory decree was, in November of the same year, issued by France, declaring the British Isles in a state of blockade.

To these restrictions on commerce—and, consequently, on the unobstructed passage from Europe—succeeded the British orders in council and the Milan decree of Napoleon.

In March, 1809, the United States law was passed prohibiting for one year intercourse with Great Britain and France.

In 1810 the Napoleonic decrees were annulled, and the commerce of the United States had, in 1811, fairly commenced with France, but only to have their vessels fall into the hands of the British.

Preparations were now making for active hostilities, and on the 18th of June, 1812, war was formally declared by the United States to exist with Great Britain.

The German emigration sensibly felt this unfavorable condition of affairs, inasmuch as the Germans embarked principally at the ports of Liverpool and Havre; facilities for migrating thence to this country being more numerous, and the expense of the voyage less onerous. Thus, from 1806, was the stream of emigration pent up at its fountain.

In February, 1815, peace was concluded between the United States and Great Britain, and, after several months requisite to restore tranquillity and to secure the confidence of those desiring to leave the Old World, the tide resumed its flow, and with a speed greatly accelerated; as, from authentic information, collected principally at the several custom-houses, it appears that, during the year 1817, not less than 22,240 persons arrived at ports of the United States from foreign countries. This number included American citizens returning from abroad.

In no year previous to that had one-half so many foreign passengers reached our shores. Many sufferings were incident to a voyage across the Atlantic in a crowded emigrant vessel; and there were no laws of the United States either limiting the number of persons which a passenger ship or vessel should be entitled to carry or providing any measures for the health or accommodation of the passengers. The subject seemed to deserve the immediate attention of Congress. In 1818 (March 10) Louis M'Lane, of Delaware, reported to the House of Representatives a bill "regulating passenger ships and vessels," which was read twice and referred.

In December of the following session it was called up by Thomas Newton, of Virginia, who explained the necessity of its passage. It was read a third time and passed by the House.

After receiving amendments from both the Senate and House, it was finally passed, and approved March 2, 1819.

Mr. Bromwell, from the data at his command, estimated the number of immigrants arrived in the country from the close of the Revolutionary war to 1820 to be 250,000.

Prior to 1856 the official statistics of arrivals of passengers from foreign countries indicate the arrivals of alien passengers only, without distinguishing those intending to make their permanent residence in this country from merely transient passengers or sojourners. From 1856 to 1868 the statistics distinguish, as to the total number of alien arrivals, the immigrants from the transient passengers, but since 1868 the number of immigrants of each nationality are shown separately from sojourners.

Neither the act of March 2, 1819, nor any subsequent act provided means for collecting statistics of immigrants arriving otherwise than in vessels, and no attempt was made to ascertain the number of immigrants crossing the frontier into the United States either from Mexico or Canada until 1860, when, by direction of the Secretary of the Treasury, the collectors of customs at Detroit and Port Huron made returns to the Department of State of immigrants arriving at those ports from and through Canada, by railway trains and ferries, so far as they could learn the number, nationality, etc., from inspection and inquiry of the passengers.

The collectors at those ports continued to make returns to the Department of State of such data as could be procured from the sources and in the manner indicated until 1868, and after that date to this bureau, until June 30, 1885, when the returns were discontinued owing to their unreliability, the passenger traffic across the frontier at those points having become so great as to render it very difficult to discriminate between transient passengers and immigrants, also from the inability of the Department to secure information in regard to immigrants arriving at other points on the border.

No statistics of immigrants arriving by land-carriage from Mexico have ever been collected. Since June 30, 1885, immigrants from Mexico and Canada, whether arriving by land or by water, have been excluded from the immigration statistics. The number, nationality, etc., of immigrants arriving in vessels by sea from those countries can be ascertained under existing law; but as the greater number arrive by land-carriage it is deemed best to exclude the arrivals by sea. The passenger traffic across our borders has become so great in consequence of our intimate trade relations and the fluctuations of wages in the respective countries, that people pass backward and forward between the United States, Canada, and Mexico with almost the same facility as between the States of our nation. Under these circumstances, with the facilities of cheap and rapid travel between the countries, the number leaving one country for another with the fixed determination of permanently changing their residence grows less yearly; and it would, therefore, be very difficult to frame a law that would accurately secure the true annual net immigration of the respective countries from each other. The national census, which shows the number of persons of Mexican and Canadian birth in the United States at each decade, is believed to afford the best attainable data for an estimate of the annual immigration from those countries.

Secretary.

No. 1.—Statement showing, by nationalities, the number of alien passengers arrived in the United States during each calendar year from 1820 to 1867, inclusive, and of immigrants only during each year from 1868 to 1888, inclusive.

[Notes.—1. Prior to the year 1820 no official record was kept of the arrivals of alien passengers. It is estimated, however, that the total number arrived in the United States from the foundation of the Government to the year 1820 was 250,000. 2. The years 1820 to 1831 and from 1843 to 1868, inclusive, are years ending September 30; all other years are calendar years.]

No. 1.—Statement showing, by nationalities, the number of alien passengers arrived in the United States during each calendar year from 1820 to 1867, inclusive, and of immigrants only during each year from 1868 to 1886, inclusive.

[Notes.—1. Prior to the year 1820 no official record was kept of the arrivals of alien passengers. It is estimated, however, that the total number arrived in the United States from the foundation of the Government to the year 1820 was 250,000. 2. The years 1820 to 1831 and from 1843 to 1850, inclusive, are years ending September 30; all other years are calendar years.]

visions of this act shall be deemed forfeited to the United States, and shall be liable to seizure and condemnation in any district of the United States into which such vessel may enter or in which she may be found.

SEC. 11. That any person who shall knowingly bring into or cause to be brought into the United States by land, or who shall knowingly aid or abet the same, or aid or abet the landing in the United States from any vessel of any Chinese person not lawfully entitled to enter the United States, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall, on conviction thereof, be fined in a sum not exceeding one thousand dollars, and imprisoned for a term not exceeding one year.

SEC. 12. That no Chinese person shall be permitted to enter the United States by land without producing to the proper officer of customs the certificate in this act required of Chinese persons seeking to land from a vessel. And any Chinese person found unlawfully within the United States shall be caused to be removed therefrom to the country from whence he came, by direction of the President of the United States, and at the cost of the United States, after being brought before some justice, judge, or commissioner of a court of the United States and found to be one not lawfully entitled to be or remain in the United States.

SEC. 13. That this act shall not apply to diplomatic and other officers of the Chinese Government traveling upon the business of that Government, whose credentials shall be taken as equivalent to the certificate in this act mentioned, and shall exempt them and their body and household servants from the provisions of this act as to other Chinese persons.

SEC. 14. That hereafter no State court or court of the United States shall admit Chinese to citizenship; and all laws in conflict with this act are hereby repealed.

SEC. 15. That the words "Chinese laborers," wherever used in this act, shall be construed to mean both skilled and unskilled laborers and Chinese employed in mining.

Approved May 6, 1882.

Regulations of the Treasury Department under the above act.

To prevent any just cause of complaint as regards the administration of the law, collectors and all other officers of the customs will take pains to carefully carry out the provisions of the act so far as it devolves duties upon them.

The certificate must conform in all particulars to the statement in the list entered in the registry book, kept in accordance with the requirements of section 4 or 5 of the act.

The names thus listed and entered will be numbered consecutively, and the certificates should be so numbered as to correspond; be issued at the time the list is taken, without charge or cost therefor, and be filed and canceled when redelivered to a collector.

A custom-house seal will be affixed to the certificate, which must be signed by the collector of customs or his deputy.

The form of the certificate will be as in the Exhibit A, hereto annexed.

CHAS. J. FOLGER,
Secretary.

COLLECTORS OF CUSTOMS AND OTHERS.

EXHIBIT A.

AN ACT to regulate the carriage of passengers by sea. [August 2, 1882.]

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That it shall not be lawful for the master of a steam-ship or other vessel whereon emigrant passengers, or passengers other than cabin passengers, have been taken at any port or place in a foreign country or dominion (ports and places in foreign territory contiguous to the United States excepted) to bring such vessel and passengers to any port or place in the United States unless the compartments, spaces, and accommodations hereinafter mentioned have been provided, allotted, maintained, and used for and by such passengers during the entire voyage; that is to say, in a steam-ship, the compartments or spaces, unobstructed by cargo, stores, or goods, shall be of sufficient dimensions to allow for each and every passenger carried or brought therein one hundred cubic feet, if the compartment or space is located on the main deck or on the first deck next below the main deck of the vessel, and one hundred and twenty cubic feet for each passenger carried or brought therein if the compartment or space is located on the second deck below the main deck of the vessel; and it shall not be lawful to carry or bring passengers on any deck other than the decks above mentioned. And in sailing-vessels such passengers shall be carried or brought only on the deck (not being an orlop deck) that is next below the main deck of the vessel, or in a poop or deck-house constructed on the main deck; and the compartment or space, unobstructed by cargo, stores, or goods, shall be of sufficient dimensions to allow one hundred and ten cubic feet to each and every passenger brought therein. And such passengers shall not

REGULATIONS AND DECISIONS.

IMMIGRANT FUND—LIABILITY TO CAPITATION TAX.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT, September 1, 1882.

SIR: The Department is in receipt of your letter of the 29th ultimo, in regard to the collection of 50 cents per head for immigrants arriving at your port.

Your letter raises the question of the mode of collection.

The Department holds—

First, that the tax is to be collected only for alien immigrants intending to reside in this country, and not for transient alien immigrants, who enter the country for a brief visit, or who merely pass through it.

Secondly, that the owners, agents, or consignees, etc., of the sail or other vessels or boats by which alien immigrant passengers arrive are to be held primarily responsible for the 50-cent duty.

Thirdly. Officers of the customs at your port should ascertain the number of alien immigrant passengers * * * and hold the owners, agents, etc., of the boat or vessel by which they arrive responsible for the tax. It is no part of the business of the customs officers to determine the mode in which the owners shall reimburse themselves from the immigrant, nor is it their duty to collect the tax from the immigrant.

Fourthly. Accurate lists of immigrants arriving and contemplating residence in this country should be kept in your office, that report thereof may be made to the Department when required.

You refer to Department circular No. 99, embodying the "Act to regulate the carriage of passengers by sea," approved August 2, 1882, and inquire whether the rule therein laid down for computing passengers shall be adopted, to wit: To disregard children under one year of age, and to consider two children between one and eight years of age as a single passenger.

You are informed that the rule in question is embodied in that act for the purpose of accommodating the spaces in a vessel to the healthful needs of passengers while on a voyage, and should not govern the construction of the act regulating immigration, under which every alien immigrant child destined to make its home in this country is to be reckoned a passenger for which the head-money is to be collected.

Very respectfully,

H. F. FRENCH,
Acting Secretary.

IMMIGRANT FUND—LIABILITY TO CAPITATION TAX.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT, September 12, 1882.

SIR: The Department is in receipt of your report of the 25th ultimo, on the appeal (with accompanying protest) of Mr. F. W. J. Hurst, as against your exaction of a capitation tax of 50 cents for each of the alien passengers per steam-ship Egypt, August 14, 1882, under the act of August 3, 1882.

The appellant claims (1) that twenty-eight of such passengers had at some former time arrived in the United States or lived therein, and are not therefore within the operation of said law; (2) that forty-five of such passengers came on said steam-ship as first-class saloon or cabin passengers, and are therefore exempt from the operation of said law; and (3) that said law is unconstitutional and void.

In reply, you are informed that, as to the first claim, the fact that an alien passenger had at some prior time been in this country does not bar the exaction of the capitation tax under the law, unless it appears that he had acquired a permanent residence in this country, and that such residence has never been formally abandoned or relinquished. If any of said twenty-eight passengers come within this exception, certified statements for refund of the capitation tax exacted on their account may be forwarded to the Department.

The second claim of the appellant, to the effect that the law does not apply to first-class saloon or cabin passengers, is rejected, inasmuch as the law makes no such distinction.

The third claim, that said act is unconstitutional, is also rejected, for the reason that it is not within the province of this Department to pass upon the same as an original question.

Subject to the limitations above stated, your action in the premises is affirmed.

You will please inform the appellant of this decision.

Very respectfully,

H. F. FRENCH,
Acting Secretary.

IMMIGRANT FUND—LIABILITY TO CAPITATION TAX.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT, September 16, 1882.

SIR: I am in receipt of your report of the 13th instant, on two appeals (with accompanying protests) of Mr. Louis de Bebian, from your assessment of "head-money," at the rate of 50 cents per capita, under the act of August 3, 1882, on certain alien passengers per steam-ships Amerique and Caldera, September 7, 1882.

The claim of the appellant seems to be (1) that said act is unconstitutional, as well as in violation of treaty obligations entered into with foreign powers; (2) that infants under one year of age are exempt from the operation of said law and that of children between the ages of one and eight years two should be counted as one passenger; and (3) that cabin passengers do not come under the operation of said law.

In reply, you are informed that, as to the first claim, the Department does not consider it as within its province to pass upon any question involving the constitutionality or validity of the law in question in advance of any judicial determination thereof.

With reference to the second claim, it is sufficient to say that the law in question does not make any exceptions in favor of any one on account of age. The third claim must also be rejected for the reason that the law makes no distinction between cabin and steerage passengers, so as to make the former, as such, exempt from its operation.

In view of the foregoing considerations, your action in the premises is affirmed. Please notify the appellant.

Very respectfully,

H. F. FRENCH,
Acting Secretary.

VESSELS—REQUIREMENTS OF PASSENGER ACT, 1882, AS TO ACCOMMODATION OF EMIGRANTS ON SHIPBOARD.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT, December 23, 1882.

SIR: The Department is in receipt of your letter of the 24th ultimo, relative to the berths of the British steam-ship Brooklyn, used by emigrants brought from Liverpool, England, to your port, and inclosing the report by the surveyor of his examination of the berths on the vessel, under the passenger act of 1882, together with an explanation of the master, H. C. Williams, dated the 23d ultimo.

IMMIGRANTS—RETURN OF CONVICTS, ETC.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT, February 17, 1883.

SIR: Your letter of the 15th instant is received, in which you inform this Department that you have reported several persons to the collector of the port of Philadelphia as coming within one or other of the classes of immigrant passengers forbidden to land by section 2 of the act of August 3, 1882. But these persons still remain on your hands, in the absence of any special regulations from this Department either to prevent the landing of the prohibited persons or to return them to the countries whence they came. You accordingly await instructions applicable to the emergency.

No special regulations for the prevention of the landing of lunatic, idiot, or destitute immigrants have been issued by this Department, because the law imposes no penalty on the vessel or master for the illegal landing of such persons, nor does it impose any penalty on vessel or master for not returning such persons to the countries whence they came. Regulations promulgated for that purpose would, therefore, remain without adequate legal sanction.

For the return of alien convicts, and preventing their landing, the Department adopted section 5 of the act of March 3, 1875. (See Treasury circular of August 7, 1882.) This provision of law is enforced by the forfeiture of the vessel that imports convict immigrants; but the forfeiture again seems to be conditioned on an inspection of the vessel under the direction of the collector of the port of arrival and the giving of a certificate to the master of the vessel, designating the convict passengers. If there has been an inspection of the vessel and an issue of the designating certificate, a forfeiture of the offending vessel could be secured when a master should land alien convicts after this designation, or should refuse to return them to their respective countries after landing.

The observance by collectors of the last paragraph of the circular of August 7, 1882, would, therefore, secure the return of alien passenger convicts.

In the case of idiot, lunatic, and destitute immigrants—that is, immigrants so destitute that they are liable to become a public charge—the collector should require of the master of the importing vessel that he return them, even though he may have no legal means of enforcing compliance with his demand.

Very respectfully,

H. F. FRENCH,
Acting Secretary.

Hon. MARLON H. DICKINSON,
President of the Board of Public Charities, Philadelphia, Pa.

IMMIGRANTS—RETURN OF PAUPERS BY ANOTHER VESSEL OF SAME LINE.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT, July 6, 1883.

SIR: I am in receipt of your report of the 30th ultimo, and accompanying documents, relating, in part, to the arrival of certain pauper immigrants at your port, per City of Richmond, on the 23d ultimo.

It appears that prior to the receipt by you of the report of the commissioners of emigration of the arrival of such pauper immigrants, said vessel had sailed from your port on her regular return trip.

Although under these circumstances it is temporarily impracticable to return such pauper immigrants by the vessel by which they arrived, the Department is of opinion that the ends contemplated by the law will be substantially satisfied if the immigrants are returned by another vessel of the same line.

CHINESE MERCHANTS.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT, March 14, 1884.

SIR: I transmit herewith a copy of a letter of March 7, 1884, from the Chinese minister to the Secretary of State, with copies of inclosures numbered 1 and 2, the one dated February 18, 1884, the other dated March 7, 1884, purporting to have been issued from your office. This Department has not been officially notified by you of the issuance of the orders contained in said inclosures. Assuming them to be correctly set forth, and referring to the sixth section of the act of Congress, approved May 6, 1882, to "execute certain treaty stipulations relating to Chinese," it appears to this Department that your announcement to the Chinese consul-general that any certificates or passports issued by his office after this date would not be regarded by the customs officers upon presentation is not in accordance with the provisions of said sixth section, which provides that "every Chinese person, other than a laborer, who may be entitled by said treaty and this act to come within the United States, shall be identified as so entitled by the Chinese Government in each case, such identity to be evidenced by a certificate issued under the authority of said Government," * * * "such certificates shall be prima facie evidence of the fact set forth therein," etc.

It has been repeatedly held by the courts, notably by Justice Deady, in the United States district court of Oregon, in the case of Ho King, that the right of Chinese, other than laborers, to come into the United States does not depend upon the production of any certificate whatever, but that the want of such certificate may be supplied by satisfactory evidence aliunde. For the convenience of Chinese persons not laborers who desire to come into the United States, the sixth section above cited provides that a certificate in the form prescribed, issued under the authority of the Chinese Government, stating that such person is entitled to come into the United States, shall be prima facie evidence of the fact set forth therein.

The Department sees no objection to your issuing such certificate as you propose to any proper persons who may apply for them, but it regards certificates issued by the Chinese consul-general at San Francisco as issued under the authority of the Chinese Government, and, if in conformity with said sixth section, entitled to be treated as prima facie evidence. Such certificate, however, is not conclusive, and if there is any reason in any case to suspect fraud or imposition, the collector will make a rigid examination and refuse to allow the passenger to land until satisfactory evidence is produced. This conclusion is in accordance with the opinion of the Department of October 25, 1882, (Synopsis, 5446), and with the opinion of Justice Deady above cited.

You will govern your course accordingly.

CHINESE PERSONS COMING TO THE UNITED STATES.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT, December 6, 1884.

To promote uniformity in the admission of Chinese persons of the exempt class, under the act of July 5, 1884, the following rules are prescribed:

First. Chinese persons, other than laborers, who are now, or who may hereafter be, lawfully within the United States, and who may desire to depart from and return to the United States, may do so on production of certificate corresponding to that required by section 6 of the act of July 5, 1884, to be issued by a Chinese consular officer stationed within the United States.

Certificates issued under the act of May 6, 1882, and Decision 6240, before the passage of said act of 1884, are to be regarded as having the same effect as if said act of 1884 had not been passed.

Second. Chinese subjects, not laborers, desiring to come to the United States from countries other than China, may do so on production of a certificate corresponding to that required by section 6 of the act of July 5, 1884, to be issued by a Chinese diplomatic or consular officer, if there be one at the port of departure, countersigned by a United States consular officer, or, if there be no such Chinese officer stationed at such port, on a like certificate to be issued by a United States consular officer.

Third. The regulations contained in Decision 5544, and dated January 23, 1883, relative to the transit of Chinese laborers through the territory of the United States, will be applied to all Chinese persons intending to so go in transit through the United States.

Fourth. Chinese persons who may be compelled to touch at ports of the United States, in transit to foreign countries, may be permitted to land under regulations of January 23, 1883, (Synopsis, 5544), so far as the same may be applicable, such persons to take passage by the next vessel leaving for their destination or the voyage of which may form part of the route necessary to carry them to their destination.

CAPITATION TAX—ALIENS ARRIVING IN UNITED STATES.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT, May 25, 1886.

The question having recently been submitted to the Attorney-General as to whether the provision of the "Act to regulate immigration," approved August 3, 1882, which levies "a duty of 50 cents for each and every passenger not a citizen of the United States who shall come by steam or sail vessel from a foreign port to any port within the United States," applies to alien passengers so coming to this country as tourists or as travelers in transit to another country, that officer has given an opinion to the effect that said provision of law applies to all such passengers, in like manner as to immigrants.

This Department adopts such construction of the law in question, and hereby instructs you to govern your action accordingly, all former instructions in conflict herewith being hereby revoked.

[Telegram.]

TREASURY DEPARTMENT, July 24, 1885.

COLLECTOR OF CUSTOMS, New York:

F. A. H. Behncke may be permitted to land.

DANIEL MANNING,
Secretary.

NOTE.—This telegram was based on the following opinion of the Attorney-General, which sets forth the facts upon which the Department's action was taken:

DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE,
Washington, July 23, 1885.

SIR: Your letter of the 20th instant has been received, in which you inquire whether section 4 of the act approved August 3, 1882, and section 5 of the act approved March 3, 1875, relating to foreign immigration, forbid the landing in the United States of the immigrant F. A. H. Behncke, the circumstances attending whose arrival at New York city are detailed in the papers forwarded by you, and which are herewith returned.

The facts disclose that he was convicted of embezzlement, sentenced to imprisonment, served a portion of the sentence, and was pardoned.

The turning-point in the case is whether or not Behncke was pardoned upon condition of emigration. A doubt may arise from his own statement. The officials at New York, apparently, do not entertain this doubt, but agree in the statement that his case does not fall within the clauses prohibiting immigration.

If his papers were examined and passed upon officially by the United States consul at Bremen, it is presumptive evidence that his pardon was unconditional, as he asserts, as the fact would be notorious. Such presumption is borne out by the additional supposition that the Government would not pardon a man whose offense was simply embezzlement in order to get him out of the country, such conditional pardons being usually granted in cases of a higher grade of criminals, whose presence in the country would be a menace to the constituted authorities.

The pardon for offense committed here would relieve him of the act and its consequences, in fact would, in legal contemplation, blot out the offense, (Knott vs. United States, 95 United States, 153; United States vs. Padelford, 9 Wall., 542; Ex parte Garland, 4 Wall., 333); and like effect must be given to the pardon of a foreign state of an offense within its jurisdiction. (Wharton, Contl. Law, section 831; Bar., International Law, 684, 692-3.)

This recognition of a pardon pronounced abroad is founded upon considerations of the general security of intercourse, and would lead to a liberal application of the statute in this case. This view, if not in conflict with other evidence not yet presented, indicates that Mr. Behncke should be permitted to land.

The desire expressed by you to have a rule stated in this case which shall be a standard for application to similar cases is, perhaps, one that can not be met by general statement. Similar cases must be governed to a large extent by the circumstances attending them, and are matters for your official discretion.

Very respectfully,

A. H. GARLAND,
Attorney-General.

The SECRETARY OF THE TREASURY.

IMMIGRANTS—LANDING AND EXAMINATION OF.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT, September 1, 1885.

Whereas difficulties have arisen in regard to the construction of so much of section 2 of "An act to regulate immigration," approved August 3, 1882, as refers to the landing of convicts, lunatics, idiots, or persons unable to take care of themselves without becoming a public charge; and whereas by section 3 of said act the Secretary of the Treasury is authorized to establish such regulations and rules, not inconsistent with law, as he shall deem best calculated to carry out the provisions of this act, the following rules, in addition to the general rules promulgated by circular of the Treasury Department of August 7, 1882, and in addition to special rules hitherto approved for the guidance of the commissioners of emigration at the port of New York, are hereby issued and declared to be henceforth in force:

(1) That all immigrants arriving at ports of the United States shall not be regarded as in fact landed within the meaning of the second section of "An act to regulate immigration," approved August 3, 1882, so long as they are undergoing the examination of commissioners of emigration, or of their agents, or of State boards having charge of destitute immigrants, and so long as they are temporarily in the charge of such officers; and any temporary removal of prohibited immigrants from on board ship to a place of convenient examination, care, or treatment as incidental to such examination, shall not be considered a landing until such officers shall have discharged such immigrants or return them on shipboard.

(2) The commissioners of emigration of the State of New York, their agents or servants, are hereby authorized and directed to go on board of all vessels arriving from foreign ports at the port of New York, and all immigrants found thereon may be taken to Castle Garden and there examined, and if on such examination there shall be found any persons not entitled to land, the collector of the port of New York, and the owners, agents, or masters of the vessel on which such persons arrived, shall be forthwith notified in writing; and the commissioners of emigration shall detain under their custody or care, either on shipboard or elsewhere, all such persons forbidden to land by the second section of said act, except convicts, who, as provided in the fifth section of "An act supplementary to the acts in relation to immigration," approved March 3, 1875, shall be subject to the charge and direction of the collector of customs of said port. And such detention shall continue until the sailing of the vessel upon which such persons arrived, or until proper provision can be made for their return to the countries whence they came.

(3) The collector of the port of New York is hereby directed to give all necessary aid to said commissioners of emigration in carrying out these regulations for the supervision of immigration at that port.

IMMIGRANTS—DEPORTATION OF CONVICTS.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT, October 2, 1885.

SIR: I am in receipt of your letter of the 23d ultimo, inclosing copies of your letter of the 18th ultimo to the United States attorney at Key West, and of his reply of the 19th ultimo, relative to your authority under the act of August 3, 1882, to deport one Greartilla, a convict recently arrived from Havana, Cuba, who had a short time before served out one term of imprisonment there, and was about to be sent to the penal settlement on the Isle of Pines, but whose sentence was remitted on condition of his leaving the Island of Cuba.

You inquire whether the views of the United States attorney, as expressed in his letter, as to the effect of a pardon in relieving an alien convict from the operation of our immigrant laws, are in accord with those of this Department.

With reference thereto, I would state that the Department has decided, in accordance with an opinion of the Attorney-General (see Synopsis, 7038), that a convict who has received a full, unconditional pardon for an offense committed is relieved from the act and its consequences; or, in other words, that the offense is considered blotted out.

This rule of law operates to relieve the pardoned alien convict from any disabilities attaching to convicts under our immigrant law, unless, as in the case in question, the act of March 3, 1875 (18 Stats., 477), applies in prohibiting the landing in the United States of alien convicts who had been pardoned "on condition of their emigration."

CAPITATION TAX—ALIENS ARRIVING, BUT NOT LANDED, BEING DESTINED FOR FOREIGN PORT, NOT SUBJECTS OF.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT, November 16, 1885.

SIR: I am in receipt of your letter of the 4th instant, transmitting and reporting upon the application of Messrs. Funch, Edye & Co. for relief from payment of capitation tax, under the act of August 3, 1882, on account of certain alien passengers, ninety-two in number, who arrived at your port from Havana, Cuba, per Majestic, on the 14th of August last.

The application sets forth, in substance, that said passengers sailed by said vessel from Havana, destined for Santander, Spain, via New York; that on the arrival of the vessel at New York these passengers were not landed, but remained on board during the time she was in port, and sailed on her from New York for Santander.

In reply, you are informed that, it appearing that the alien passengers in question stopped at New York merely as an intermediate point on their voyage to another country, without landing, and without intention of entering into this country, the Department holds that such aliens are not to be considered as coming to this country within the meaning of, and for the purposes contemplated by the immigrant act of August 3, 1882.

You will therefore refrain from collecting a capitation tax on account of the aliens in question.

Please inform the applicants of this decision.

Very respectfully,

DANIEL MANNING,
Secretary.

COLLECTOR OF CUSTOMS, New York.

PASSENGER LISTS—PASSENGER ACT, 1882, CONSTRUED.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT, May 28, 1886.

SIR: I am in receipt of your letter of the 20th instant, inquiring (1) whether, under section 9 of the act of August 2, 1882, passenger lists are to be required of masters of vessels bringing passengers to your port from ports in the Dominion of Canada, and (2) if a duty of 50 cents shall be levied and collected for each alien passenger arriving in a vessel not "employed exclusively" in the trade between your port and ports in the Dominion of Canada.

In response to your first inquiry, I would state that the first section of the act in question (act of August 2, 1882) in terms excepts from the operation of its provisions a "steam-ship or other vessel" coming from "ports and places in foreign territory contiguous to the United States."

In each succeeding section of the act, up to and including section 11, its various provisions are made applicable to "every such steam-ship or other vessel," thus connecting such sections with the first section as being subject to the limitation above noted. In one section only (section 4) is there a departure from this language. In this section, however, there is a limitation of like effect imposed by the use of the words "such passengers."

Section 12 applies the preceding sections to vessels carrying passengers from the United States to foreign countries, but in terms (as in the first section) creates a similar exception as to vessels going to contiguous foreign territory.

It follows from the foregoing that the requirements in section 9 of the act as to a passenger list do not apply as to passengers brought in vessels to your port from ports in the Dominion of Canada.

With reference to the point raised in your second inquiry, I would state that the Department holds that, under section 22 of the shipping act of June 26, 1884, the duty levied by the immigrant act of August 3, 1882, for alien passengers does not apply to such passengers when brought by a vessel from a port in the Dominion of Canada by direct voyage from Canada to the United States, such voyage commencing at a port in Canada and terminating at a port of the United States. The exemptions created by said provision of the shipping act are held to apply not only to vessels of established steam-ship lines making regular trips between ports of the Dominion of Canada and those of the United States as terminal points of their voyages, but also in the case of a vessel making but a single direct voyage from Canada, such vessel being considered for that particular voyage as "employed exclusively in the trade between the ports of the United States and the ports of the Dominion of Canada." Inasmuch as this provision of law is also in terms extended to vessels from Mexico, the above ruling will also apply to them.

Respectfully, yours,

C. S. FAIRCHILD,
Acting Secretary.

FOREIGN RESIDENTS FINDING DAILY EMPLOYMENT IN THE UNITED STATES.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT, May 18, 1887.

SIR: I am in receipt of your report of the 13th instant, that in your district there are regularly employed some two hundred persons who are citizens and residents of Canada; that these persons are employed in various capacities in the United States, and cross and recross the Suspension Bridge at your port and at Niagara Falls daily, nearly all of whom bring their lunch with them in the morning and return to their homes in Canada at night. You also say that there are several builders and contractors of Canada who are in the habit of securing contracts at Suspension Bridge and Niagara Falls for the erection of buildings, plumbing, steam-heating, and various kinds of mechanical work, who employ Canadians as laborers and mechanics almost exclusively in the performance of said contracts.

You inclose a letter, addressed to you by William Murphy, secretary of the Knights of Labor organization at Niagara, setting forth the grievances to which American laborers are subjected by being forced to compete with foreign laborers, who expend all their earnings in Canada, or invest their savings, if any, in that country. You concur with Mr. Murphy in the view that this is an aggravated case of hardship against American laborers, and request instructions from the Department as to whether Department Circular No. 37 and the laws embraced therein apply to these persons or not.

You are informed that a letter from your correspondent, Mr. Murphy, dated the 6th instant, to the same purport as that you inclose, was addressed to Hon. John B. Weber, and was by him referred to this office on the 11th instant, and the same has been considered by this Department.

If, in the cases referred to, aliens from Canada or any other foreign country enter the United States under a contract made previous to such entry, to perform labor or service of any kind in the United States, such entry and such contract are in violation of the provisions of the act of February 26, 1885, and are forbidden.

It would not seem to make any difference with the application of the rule that such entry is only for a day or other brief period of time, and is renewed or repeated from day to day, or at short intervals, providing that previous to each entry a contract had been made to perform labor or service of any kind in the United States. The intent of the statute, as well as its plain language, prohibits such transactions. Such cases come within the provisions of sections 1, 2, and 3 of the act of February 26, 1885, which are not restricted in their operation to alien immigrants on vessels arriving at ports of the United States, but include all cases where alien immigrants, under contract to labor, undertake to enter the United States at any point. Section 3 provides the penalty incurred for every violation of the provisions of section 1 and that it may be sued for and recovered by the United States, or by any person who shall first bring his action therefor, in the circuit court of the United States, the proceeds of the recovery to be paid into the public treasury; and it also provides that it shall be the duty of the district attorney of the proper district to prosecute every such suit at the expense of the United States.

If offenses have been committed, or are threatened, it would not seem that any further regulations on the part of the Treasury Department were necessary in order to enforce the penalties of the statutes.

Respectfully, yours,

HUGH S. THOMPSON,
Acting Secretary.

WIVES AND CHILDREN OF ALIEN IMMIGRANTS.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT, June 22, 1887.

SIR: I am in receipt of your letter of the 18th instant, proposing certain inquiries as to what constitutes citizenship under the laws of the United States.

Your questions will be answered in the order proposed.

(1) Children born out of the jurisdiction of the United States, but whose fathers are native-born citizens, become ipso facto citizens of the United States. (See Title XXV, Revised Statutes.)

(2) The rule above stated applies to naturalized citizens as well as those native born.

(3) The alien wife of a citizen of the United States becomes a citizen by the fact of her marriage. Whether it occurred before or after naturalization is immaterial.

(4) An alien woman does not acquire citizenship in this country by the mere fact of continuous residence here.

You make the further inquiry whether the law excluding lunatics from landing is to be rigidly enforced under all circumstances. You cite, as an instance in point, the case of a wife and mother, whose family resided in this country, and is capable of supporting her. An analogous case arose at one of the ports some time since, where a father, an alien residing in this country and having ample means, was desirous of having his idiot son brought to this country, he being both able and willing to support him. The son was allowed to land.

The immigrant law, in its proscriptive provisions as to alien lunatics and idiots, seeks to exclude them from this country for the paramount reason that, being unable to take care of themselves they are liable to become a public charge.

It was in accordance with this view that the case referred to was decided.

The case you present falls within the same principle.

Respectfully, yours,

C. S. FAIRCHILD,
Secretary.

IMMIGRATION—COMMISSIONERS OF EMIGRATION AT NEW YORK NOT REQUIRED TO PAY OVER TO THE TREASURY DEPARTMENT MONEYS COLLECTED BY THEM FOR PRIVILEGES THEY HAVE GRANTED.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT, July 17, 1888.

SIR: The Attorney-General, to whom was referred the question relating to the moneys collected by the commissioners for certain privileges granted by them in Castle Garden, has given an opinion to the effect that the commissioners are not required to account for and pay over to the Treasury Department the moneys so collected.

This opinion is based upon the fact that Castle Garden has been leased to the Commissioners of Emigration in their capacity as State officers, and that as such officers they are accountable to the State, and not to the United States, for the income derived from the use of the premises under privileges granted by them.

It would seem to follow, from the opinion of the Attorney-General, that the Secretary of the Treasury is not in any way responsible for the rent of Castle Garden, and hereafter items for the rent of the premises can not be allowed in the accounts of the commissioners. This seems to be especially just, inasmuch as the commissioners are transacting their business and receiving fees for licenses given by them to transact private business upon the premises leased, and receiving an annual income from the subletting of the premises for the purposes named far in excess of the annual rent paid.

Respectfully, yours,

I. H. MAYNARD,
Assistant Secretary.

CIRCULAR.—DEPORTATION OF IMMIGRANTS ALLOWED TO LAND CONTRARY TO THE LAW PROHIBITING THE IMPORTATION OF FOREIGN LABORERS UNDER CONTRACT.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT, November 21, 1888.

TO COLLECTORS OF CUSTOMS, COMMISSIONERS OF IMMIGRATION, AND OTHERS:

Attention is called to the following amendment to the alien-contract labor law contained in the deficiency bill, approved October 19, 1888, viz:

"That the act approved February twenty-third, eighteen hundred and eighty-seven, entitled 'An act to amend an act to prohibit the importation and immigration of foreigners and aliens under contract or agreement to perform labor in the United States, its Territories, and the District of Columbia,' be, and the same is hereby, so amended as to authorize the Secretary of the Treasury, in case he shall be satisfied that an immigrant has been allowed to land contrary to the prohibition of the law, to cause such immigrant within the period of one year after landing or entry, to be taken into custody and returned to the country from whence he came, at the expense of the owner of the importing vessel, or if he entered from an adjoining country, at the expense of the person previously contracting for the services."

Collectors of customs, commissioners of immigration, and others, upon receiving information that immigrants have been imported into this country and allowed to land contrary to the provisions of the act of February 26, 1885, as amended by the act of February 23, 1887, will ascertain the names and addresses of all such immigrants, and the date of their arrival, and forthwith report the same to the Secretary of the Treasury, together with such facts and circumstances relating to their importation as may be obtained, and also the name of the importing vessel, or, if entering from an adjoining country, the name of the person, company, or corporation, contracting for the services of such immigrants.

HUGH S. THOMPSON,
Acting Secretary.

CHINESE RESTRICTION ACTS—RETURN OF LABORERS FROM ALASKA.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT, February 16, 1889.

SIR: The Department is in receipt of your letter of the 7th instant, inclosing a form of certificate which you suggest should be issued to Chinese laborers, resident in the United States, who may be employed for the purpose of proceeding to Alaska as laborers in the fisheries in that Territory, and in reply you are informed that it is not deemed expedient to prescribe any particular form of evidence for the identity of such Chinese laborers when returning to United States ports after the fishing season closes, and that in all cases where it becomes necessary to identify Chinese seeking admission into the United States, the collector must determine in the first instance, upon all the evidence presented, whether they are entitled to admission under the laws of Congress and the regulations of the Department relative thereto.

Respectfully, yours,

I. H. MAYNARD,
Assistant Secretary.

ALIEN CONTRACT LABOR LAW—VIOLATION OF.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT, April 24, 1889.

SIR: The Department received your letter of the 13th instant, asking instructions in the case of one Harrison Bouck, who, coming from his home in Canada, hired out as a farm hand to Mr. Brown, of Lisbon, N. Y., and thereupon returned to his father's home in Canada to get his wearing apparel agreeing to return to Lisbon before the end of the week. He did return, by way of Ogdensburgh, and was reported to you by the inspector.

The question presented in this case has been referred to the Solicitor of the Treasury for his opinion. I inclose herewith a copy of his letter of the 19th instant, expressing the opinion that "unless it can be shown that Bouck's first visit was made with the bona fide intention of becoming a resident of the United States, and was not contingent upon any special employment," the case comes within the prohibition of the law, and he should return to his own country, as provided by the act of February 23, 1887, and the regulations of the Treasury Department made pursuant thereto.

I concur in this opinion, and, therefore, you are instructed to see that the law is enforced in accordance with the opinion of the Solicitor in this and all similar cases occurring in your district.

Respectfully yours,

WILLIAM WINDOM,
Secretary.

COLLECTOR OF CUSTOMS, Ogdensburgh, N. Y.

DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE,
OFFICE OF THE SOLICITOR OF THE TREASURY,
Washington, D. C., April 19, 1889.

SIR: I have considered the papers submitted relative to the migration of Harrison Bouck, a Canadian, to the United States, and his employment as a farm hand by Mr. Brown, of Lisbon, N. Y.

The statute of February 26, 1885, was enacted to prohibit the importation and immigration of foreigners and aliens under contract or agreement to perform labor in the United States, its Territories, and the District of Columbia.

It is not necessary, in order to constitute a violation of this law, that the contract for alien labor shall be made in the foreign country from whence the laborer migrates. The unlawful contract may be made here. The character of the contract must depend upon the fact whether the agreement was antecedent to the actual importation or migration. In the present case it appears that the hiring was subsequent to his first coming to the United States; but it may well be doubted, from the circumstances of the case, whether the actual immigration of Bouck was not subsequent to his employment, and when he returned to the United States with his wearing apparel. His first visit without his wearing apparel would strongly indicate that it was experimental and prospective, and that his actual immigration to this country depended upon the contingency of obtaining employment, which he secured, and which was secured under the contract referred to, before making more permanent arrangements.

Therefore, unless it can be shown that Bouck's first visit was made with the bona fide intention of becoming a resident of the United States, and was not contingent upon any special employment, I am of the opinion that his case comes within the prohibition of the law, and that he should be returned to his own country, as provided by the act of February 23, 1887, and the regulations of the Treasury Department made pursuant thereto.

This view of the statute of February 26, 1885, seems to be consistent with the decision of the Secretary. (Synopsis 8950.)

The papers referred are herewith returned.

Very respectfully,

W. P. HEPBURN,
Solicitor.

HON. SECRETARY OF THE TREASURY.

CIRCULAR.—REGULATION OF IMMIGRATION.

U. S. TREASURY DEPARTMENT, June 4, 1889.

To COLLECTORS OF CUSTOMS AND OTHERS:

The following rules and regulations are established in lieu of all others heretofore prescribed under the provisions of the act of August 3, 1882, to wit:

ART. 1. Collectors of customs will collect, as provided in section 1, a duty of 50 cents for each and every passenger not a citizen of the United States, who shall come by steam or sail vessel from a foreign port to any port of the United States, except such vessels as are employed exclusively between the ports of the United States and the ports of the Dominion of Canada or the ports of Mexico, as provided in section 22 of the act of June 26, 1884.

ART. 2. All such moneys collected must be deposited to the credit of the Treasurer of the United States on account of "Immigrant Fund," with an assistant treasurer of the United States or national bank depository, in the same manner that other miscellaneous collections are reported.

Separate accounts of the receipts and expenditures of money under the act must be rendered monthly to the Secretary of the Treasury on forms to be furnished by the Department for the purpose.

ART. 3. At ports where no State commission, board, or officers are employed under contract, as provided in section 2, the collectors at such ports will examine into the condition of passengers arriving at their respective ports, or cause the same to be done, and if on such examination there shall be found among such passengers any person or persons not entitled to land, they will take the necessary steps to prevent the landing of such persons and to return them to the country whence they came.

ART. 4. Whenever it shall be necessary, for the purpose of making the examination required by section 2, to remove the immigrant passengers from the vessel to a suitable place provided for the examination, such passengers shall not be regarded as in fact landed within the meaning of said section 2, so long as they are undergoing the examination, and are in charge of the officers or their agents, whose duty it is to make such examination; and the temporary removal from the vessel of all immigrant passengers who appear to belong to the prohibited classes to a suitable place for the purpose of further examination shall not be considered a landing during the pendency of any question relating to such examination; or while awaiting their return as provided in article 5; or during the period covered by any bond that may be given pursuant to these regulations.

ART. 5. At ports where a State commission, board, or officers are employed to make the examination required by section 2, such officers will promptly report in writing to the proper collector the names of all persons found upon examination to be within either of the prohibited classes, with a statement of the findings of such commission, board, or officers, together with all affidavits and other evidence in each case, and will forthwith give notice of such report to the owners, agents, or masters of the vessel on which such persons arrived. And the commission, board, or officers shall detain under their custody or care, either on board the vessel or elsewhere, all such persons so reported, until the collector shall have determined whether such persons shall be permitted to land or not. The collector will promptly report in writing his decision to the commission, board, or officers in charge of such persons, which decision shall be final, unless reversed, on appeal, by the Secretary of the Treasury; and if the collector shall find that any of such persons so reported should be allowed to land, they shall be immediately discharged and permitted to land upon compliance with the conditions, if any, prescribed by the collector; and all of such persons found by the collector not entitled to land shall be detained on board the vessel or elsewhere by the commission, board, or officers until the sailing of the vessel on which such persons arrived, or until proper provision for their deportation can be made, when they shall be returned to the country whence they came; and such deportation shall be under the immediate care of the commission, board, or officers, unless otherwise specially directed in any case by the Secretary of the Treasury.

ART. 6. All immigrants who are not permitted to land will be returned at the expense of the owners of the vessel in which they came, and collectors of customs are authorized and directed, if in their opinion it is necessary, to require the owners, agents, or masters of all steam or sail vessels engaged in transporting immigrant passengers from foreign ports to ports of this country, to give bond in such sum as the proper collector may deem sufficient, with surety to his satisfaction, conditioned for the return, on demand, at the expense of the owners of the vessel in which they came, all such immigrants who may be found not entitled to land.

ART. 7. In cases where it is apprehended that an immigrant may become a public charge, collectors of customs may, in their discretion, require a bond to be given, in such sum as they may deem proper, before such immigrant shall be permitted to land, conditioned that such immigrant shall not become a public charge for support, for a period of five years upon any State of the United States, its Territories, or the District of Columbia, or upon any city, town, township, county, or other municipality therein.

ART. 8. State commissioners, boards, or officers, employed under contract with the Department will conform to the instructions of collectors of customs in respect to the bonds herein provided for, and will co-operate with, and aid, the collectors in the deportation of persons prohibited from landing. Such commissioners, boards, or officers, will report each month to the Secretary of the Treasury on blanks to be furnished by the Department for that purpose, and will also make and forward an annual report at the close of each fiscal year.

ART. 9. No expense to be paid out of the immigrant fund shall be incurred by any collector, State commission, board, or officers on account of any immigrant who has passed the examination and been permitted to land, unless the authority of the Secretary of the Treasury is first obtained therefor.

ART. 10. The bonds herein prescribed for the return of prohibited immigrants, and for the admission of immigrants, will be in the respective forms hereto annexed. The bond for the admission of immigrants at ports where there is a commission, board, or officers under contract with the Department, upon the requirement of the collector, shall be taken and approved by such commission, board, or officers; in all other cases the bonds shall be taken and approved by the collector of customs at the proper port. All bonds executed in pursuance of these regulations will be placed on file in the office of the proper collector, who will duly report the name of the principal to the bond, the name of the immigrant, the date and penal sum, to the Secretary of the Treasury.

ART. 11. These regulations shall apply to all immigrant passengers arriving by vessels from any foreign ports, except as to the collection of the duty or head-money tax referred to in article 1.

These regulations shall take effect on the 1st day of July, 1889.

GEORGE S. BATCHELLER,
Acting Secretary.

Bond for return of prohibited immigrants.

Know all men by these presents, that we, ——— ——— and ——— ———, residing at ———, and ——— ———, residing at ———, are held and firmly bound unto the United States of America in the sum of ——— dollars to be paid to the said United States, for which payment, well and truly to be made, we do bind ourselves, our heirs, executors, and administrators, jointly and severally, firmly by these presents.

Sealed with our seals, and dated this ——— day of ———, 18—.

Whereas, by regulation prescribed by the Secretary of the Treasury under and by authority of the act of Congress, entitled "An act to regulate immigration," approved August 3, 1882, the owners, agents, or masters of all steam or sail vessels engaged in transporting immigrant passengers from foreign ports to any port within the United States, are required to give bond, with surety to the satisfaction of the collector of the proper port, conditioned that said owners, agents, or masters, on demand, at their own cost and expense shall return or cause to be returned to the countries whence they came, any and all such immigrants brought by their respective vessels, who may be found on examination not entitled to land; or who having been permitted to land temporarily, under bond, have been ordered to be returned within the period covered by such bond.

Now, therefore, the condition of this obligation is such that if the said ——— shall safely keep and detain all immigrant passengers brought by any of ——— vessels to the port of ———, until the examination required by said act has been made and permission given for such immigrants to land (except where such immigrant passengers have been removed from the vessel, temporarily, for examination), and shall forthwith, on demand, return or cause to be returned to the country whence he, she, or they came, any and all persons arriving by any of ——— vessels at said port, who have been, or may be adjudged not entitled to land under the provisions of the Immigrant Act above cited and the rules and regulations prescribed thereunder by the Secretary of the Treasury, then this bond to be null and void, otherwise to remain in full force and virtue.
